The Age of Stupid (92 minutes)

This latest documentary epic from director Franny Armstrong ("McLibel") and Oscar-winning producer John Battsek ("One Day in September") explores climate change and the gamut of related issues: politics, oil, war, consumerism and human fallibility. An ambitious hybrid of drama, documentary and animation, the film stars Pete Postlethwaite as an old man living in the devastated world of 2055. As he watches "archive" footage from 2008, the old man asks, "Why didn't we stop climate change while we had the chance?"
