Eyes on the Prize - Episode 13: The Keys to the Kingdom (1974 - 1980)

For the last four months the Anti-Racism Team has viewed The Rise and Fall of Jim Crow. This four part series concentrated on the inequities within the South. However, episode 13 of Eyes on the Prize: The Keys to the Kingdom addresses racism both in the north and the south.

In the 1970s, anti-discrimination legal rights gained in past decades by the civil rights movement are put to the test. In Boston, some whites violently resist a federal court school desegregation order. Atlanta's first black mayor, Maynard Jackson, proves that affirmative action can work, but the Bakke Supreme Court case challenges that policy.

Note: An open, inquiring, analytical discussion will follow the viewing.
